MRS. KNAPP GIVEN SHORT TERM IN JAIL

Former New York Secretary of State Sentenced To Thirty Days.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, was sentenced to thirty days in the Albany county jail today by Justice Stephen C. Chan before whom she was convicted of larceny for mismanagement of state census funds in 1925. She was taken into custody by the sheriff as soon as sentence was passed.

Whether Mrs. Knapp will go to jail immediately depends upon action of the supreme court on a petition of reasonable doubt, which, if granted, would hold up the jail sentence pending an appeal which already has been filed. Mrs. Knapp showed no outward emotion in court. She was without a word during reading of the judge's statement. There was a moment of intense interest as the sentence was pronounced.

The former woman official said ahead of her for a few moments as the judge left the bench and then began to talk to her attorneys who sat at the table with her in the small court room, apparently undisturbed.

Counsel explained after the sentence that she would be out on pending the appeal, which would take some time. But it was expected that she would first go to obtain a petition of reasonable doubt.

Court was adjourned by Justice Chan until December 21, when he had pronounced the sentence.

Hassell and Cramer Make Plans To Proceed To Greenland Coast.

BULLETIN, Sept. 4—Last guard officials may order the Cutter Marion to Greenland after Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, rescued aviators, whether the aviators' fliers in Rockford, Ill., request such assistance or not, was learned today.

LIANEHAAE, Greenland d. 4.—Physically fit, although spent two weeks wandering high little known parts of inland while they sought Mt. Evans, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer today made plans to proceed to the Greenland coast.

The pilots of the airplane, Rockford, which was forced down August 19 on the Sukoppen ice arm, expect to proceed to Holstenborg shortly.

Hassell and Cramer arrived at Evans—the destination of flight from Cochrane, Ont.—Sunday night. They were cold and in need of food since their plane landed at 19 they had been beating away through the uncharted Greenland passes, seeking Mt. Evans.

Food had been limited to portions of pemmican. Neither was hurt when the landing was made and plane, a trim Stinson-Duff, was undamaged when it forced to land.

They had attempted to fly to a landing field that had been located at Mt. Evans, where the first of Michigan now has a reputation, but in some manner they were exhausted they had to foot towards the University town—the only group on land that they knew.

WILLIAMSPORT FIGHTS PENNSY

500 Sign Petitions Opposing Abandonment of Line Through Town.

A petition is being circulated in Williamsport by C. W. Hay and Frank Maley to prevent the Pennsylvania R. R. from discontinuing the operation of its railroad through town.

Over 500 signers are on the petition and it is expected to have over the 600 mark before Thursday, Sept. 6, at which date, G. P. Hunsicker will present the petition to the Utilities Commission of Ohio. It is understood that quite a fight will be made to prevent the Pennsy from taking this run out of existence. FRENCH START ON ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Long Distance Attempt May Bring Them To New York.

(BULLETIN) LEBOURGET FIELD, France, Sept. 4.—The Yellow Bird, off on mystery long distance flight, had been gone from Paris ten hours at 5:05 p.m., today without a report having been received of its progress.

The Yellow Bird carried Sergeants Jean Assolant and Rene Refere, of the French army, and probably two stowaways. Lebourget officials were convinced that Armand Lott, wealthy hotel man's son and financial backer of the flight, had stowed aboard, as well as Kellogg Briand, Assolant's pet puppy.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—British wireless stations today intercepted a message from the French wireless station at Ushant telling of the departure of the airplane, Yellow Bird, on a "cross Atlantic" flight.

The announcement said the flight would be by way of Cape Finisterre, Spain; the Azores, Halifax and thence direct to New York.

The announcement said the airplane had no radio set, and asked that all ships report passing of the craft and give any assistance necessary.

LE BOURGET FIELD, Paris, Sept. 4.—A brilliantly painted monoplane "The Yellow Bird" started from Le Bourget field this morning with Sergeants Jean Assolant and Rene Refere at the controls bound on a long distance flight.

Committees Meet In Chicago To Study Mediation Proposal After 70,000 On 55 Roads Vote To Walk Out

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Committees of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the order of railway conductors met here today to consider a mediation proposal which may avert a threatened strike among 70,000 employees on 55 western railroads.

Although the majority of trainmen and conductors have voted for the strike, the walkout will not be called if the peace plans drawn up in Washington last week by representatives of the railroads, Brotherhoods and the federal board of mediation, should prove satisfactory to the Brotherhood committees now in session here.

High officials of the two organizations said it may be two or three days before the committees could reach an agreement on the mediation proposal. Until then they are withholding the final result of the strike vote.

A. F. Whitney of Cleveland, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen announced last night that trainmen and conductors on 55 western roads had voted almost "one hundred per cent for a walkout."

The strike vote resulted from failure of previous conferences which lasted over a period of several months. A demand of from 10 to 18 per cent wage increase was asked by the trainmen. The roads offered to meet the salary demand in part but held out for certain working conditions.

PAIR OF KILLERS ESCAPE ASYLUM

Countryside Joins In Search For Two Murderers Who Beat Guards.

LIMA, O., Sept. 4.—An aroused countryside joined today in the search for Clarence Beard, 32, and Thomas McKenna, 38, who escaped from the State asylum here after overpowering a guard and scaling a wall.

Both men are killers and authorities expressed the fear that other killings will result if the men are cornered.

Beard was sent to the asylum from Cleveland after killing Stephen Zaborski, 45, former cashier and secretary of the Lithuanian Savings & Loan company.

McKenna was committed to the asylum for the murder of a Lima policeman in a sensational gun battle here several years ago.

Asylum attaches said the men escaped from their cells after prying loose metal grills across the transoms. They cornered and overpowered B. L. Hoyt, a guard, relieved him of his keys, locked him in a cell and fled.

Beard was a fugitive from the Michigan State hospital, at Jona when he was taken into custody. Zaborski, the banker, was shot to death during the holdup Jan. 31. Two bandits fled with $500 a month later Beard, or Clarence Germaine, as he was then known, was captured in St. Louis.

He was known also as "Conventioneer Clarence." He said he would attend large conventions as a delegate, and was himself with a band, held the place up, then returned to his disguise as one of the convention delegates.

An inmate of the asylum, captured by Beard while he was being returned from St. Louis, associated him with the Zaborski killing. He later confessed.

9 WAR PLANES TURNED BACK BY HEAVY FOG

Return to Augusta After Long Battle With Elements—May Start Later Today.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 4.—The nine huge war planes enroute from Langley Field, Va., on a trans-continental trip to Los Angeles, were forced to return here at 9:15 a.m. today after two hours attempting to break through cloud banks after taking off from Montgomery, Ala., and Shreveport, La.

The plane flew over under and through thick clouds and rain but the going became worse as the planes went westward.

Major Hugh Knerr turned the flight back about 85 miles away near Milledgeville. He hoped for a favorable weather report later today, to attempt the flight again.

The bombers left the Augusta airport at 7:10 a.m. The skies were cloudy.

Chamber of Commerce and civic officials and hundreds of citizens turned out to the airport to meet the fliers when they arrived last night completing the 410-mile leg of their journey, through storms and against headwinds.

A similar greeting had been arranged at Shreveport, La. All along the route workmen in the cotton and corn fields stopped their horses and dropped their tools as soon as the mighty hum of the 7000 horsepower driving the huge planes through 18 Liberty engines was heard.

The fliers are working on a wartime flying schedule and arose at four thirty this morning to make the seven mile automobile trip from Augusta to the fine new airport where their steeds spent the night.

CIRCLEVILLE ENROLLMENT SHOWS GAIN

Seventy More Children Registered As School Opens For 1928-29 Term.

Vacation days are over. Circleville's school children today answered the roll call back in their seats in the schoolroom. To many it was the annual grind, as they would call it. To others it was something new and unusual.

The school bells rang at 8:28, the tardy bell at 8:30. The sessions which lasted only a few hours in the morning were spent arranging the students in their respective classes and getting them acquainted with their teachers.

Wednesday school proper will start and classes will be called.

Reports show 70 more pupils are enrolled in the schools this year than in 1927. The total for this year is 1470. Totals for the previous years are as follows: 1924, 1404; 1925, 1407; 1926, 1405 and 1927, 1400.

The opportunity rooms have an enrollment of 28. In former years there was only one class in this division of the school. This year there are two, one in charge of Miss Marie Hamilton and the other in charge of Miss Iris Preece.

NEW PRINCIPAL TALKS

After the opening with singing, he introduced the new teacher, F. L. Johnson, and the new principal, E. I. Gephart. Mr. Gephart took charge of the session and explained to the scholars something of his plans for the coming year.

After a short address, Mr. Gephart assigned the pupils to the various class rooms for distributions of books and the schedule arrangement. Class work will probably begin in earnest Wednesday.

Norman W. Ralston, editor of The Herald, who was injured when an automobile in which he was riding collided with another car on the Westfall road last Friday night, will not lose the sight of his right eye, as was feared at first.

A minor operation was performed by Dr. Russell Means, eye specialist, at Columbus Saturday afternoon, Mr. Ralston was then removed to White Cross hospital for several days' observation. Unless complications develop, he will be able to return home within a day or two.

Attorney Richard Simkins, who was driving with Ralston in the former's Packard, was uninjured. William Maloney, W. Main-st., suffered a fractured right leg and numerous cuts on his face when he turned over in Mr. Ralston's Chrysler roadster Saturday morning. Maloney was returning from the Simkins farm when the Chrysler struck a stone in the road, turning over three times.

Ralston's automobile, completely wrecked, is now in the Clifton repair shop.

PAIR OF KILLERS ESCAPE ASYLUM

Countryside Joins In Search For Two Murderers Who Beat Guards.

LIMA, O., Sept. 4.—An aroused countryside joined today in the search for Clarence Beard, 32, and Thomas McKenna, 38, who escaped from the State asylum here after overpowering a guard and scaling a wall.

Both men are killers and authorities expressed the fear that other killings will result if the men are cornered.

Beard was sent to the asylum from Cleveland after killing Stephen Zaborskis, 45, former cashier and secretary of the Lithuanian Savings & Loan company.

McKenna was committed to the asylum for the murder of a Lima policeman in a sensational gun battle here several years ago.

Asylum attaches said the men escaped from their cells after prying loose metal grills across the transoms. They cornered and overpowered B. L. Hoyt, a guard, relieved him of his keys, locked him in a cell and fled.

Beard was a fugitive from the Michigan State hospital, at Ionia when he was taken into custody. Zaborskis, the banker, was shot to death during the holdup Jan. 31. Two bandits fled with $600. A month later Beard, or Clarence Germaine, as he was then known, was captured in St. Louis.

He was known also as "Convention Clarence." Police said he would attend large conventions, pose as a delegate, familiarize himself with a bank, hold the place up, then return to his disguise as one of the convention delegates.

An inadvertent remark dropped by Beard while he was being returned from St. Louis, connected him with the Zaborskis killing. He later confessed.

9 WAR PLANES TURNED BACK BY HEAVY FOG

Return to Augusta After Long Battle With Elements—May Start Later Today

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 4.—The nine huge war planes enroute from Langley Field, Va., on a trans-continental trip to Los Angeles, were forced to return here at 9:15 a.m. today after two hours attempting to break through cloud banks after taking off from Montgomery, Ala., and Shreveport, La.

The plane flew over under and through thick clouds and rain but the going became worse as the planes went westward.

Major Hugh Knerr turned the flight back about 85 miles away near Milledgeville. He hoped for a favorable weather report later today, to attempt the flight again.

The bombers left the Augusta airport at 7:10 a.m. The skies were cloudy.

Chamber of Commerce and civic officials and hundreds of citizens turned out to the airport to meet the fliers when they arrived last night completing the 410-mile leg of their journey, through storms and against headwinds.

A similar greeting had been arranged at Shreveport, La.

All along the route workmen in the cotton and corn fields stopped their horses and dropped their tools as soon as the mighty hum of the 7000 horsepower driving the huge planes through 18 Liberty engines was heard.

The fliers are working on a wartime flying schedule and arose at four thirty this morning to make the seven mile automobile trip from Augusta to the fine new airport where their steeds spent the night.

CIRCLEVILLE ENROLLMENT SHOWS GAIN

Seventy More Children Registered As School Opens For 1928-29 Term.

Vacation days are over. Circleville's school children today answered the roll call back in their seats in the schoolroom. To many it was the annual grind, as they would call it. To others it was something new and unusual.

The school bells rang at 8:28 the tardy bell at 8:30. The sessions which lasted only a few hours in the morning were spent arranging the students in their respective classes and getting them acquainted with their teachers.

Wednesday school proper will start and classes will be called. Reports show 70 more pupils are enrolled in the schools this year than in 1927. The total for this year is 1470. Totals for the previous years are as follows: 1924, 1404, 1925, 1407; 1926, 1405 and 1927, 1400.

In the Circleville High school 281 pupils are ready for classes, reports show. Of this number 141 are girls and 140 are boys. High-st. grade school has an enrollment of 222, Franklin-st., 259; Walnut-st., 161 and Corwin building has 457.

The total in the eighth grade is 90. There are 205 in the first grade, 148 in the second; 153 in the third; 161 in the fourth; 140 in the fifth; 121 in the sixth and 144 in the seventh.

As records or previous years have shown, many drop out each term in the high school. Reports show 98 freshmen, 79 sophomores, 58 juniors and 50 seniors enrolled for this year's classes.

The opportunity rooms have an enrollment of 28. In former years there was only one class in this division of the school. This year there are two, one in charge of Miss Marie Hamilton and the other in charge of Miss Iris Fricke.

NEW PRINCIPAL TALKS

The first morning chapel held this year at the Circleville High school began at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday, and was conducted by Supt. J. O. Eagleson. He chose for the Scripture reading the 28 chapter of Job.

After the opening with singing, he introduced the new teacher, F. L. Johnson, and the new principal, E. I. Gephart. Mr. Gephart took charge of the session and explained to the scholars something of his plans for the coming year.

After a short address, Mr. Gephart assigned the pupils to the various class rooms for distributions of books and the schedule arrangement. Class work will probably begin in earnest Wednesday.

Raeburn Disqualified In Bout With Klusma

FRANKLIN CLUB SHOW PLEASES SMALL CROWD

Finklea, Baxter and Moats Win In Thrilling Preliminaries Last Night.

By J. RUDOLPH GESSLEY

Local fistic fans who enjoy the knockdown drag out type of boxing and who feel slighted if they get nothing short of a civil war for their money were well rewarded for their visit to the Franklin Athletic Club's indoor show at the C. A. C. gym Monday night. The small but appreciative crowd saw fists tossed with a reckless abandon in nearly every round, and were kept in a constant uproar by sensational knockdowns.

In the main go, Eddie Klusman of Cincinnati upset the dope bucket and Danny Raeburn, the flashy Warren ringman, with a series of punches in the second round of a scheduled six round bout.

Raeburn got away nicely in the first round in his usual cool, confident manner and landed frequently on his taller and apparently slow, awkward opponent. Klusman accomplished little in this initial set to and many were of the opinion that he was due for an artistic lacing. He snapped out of it near the middle of the second round, however, and let Raeburn have both barrels of the old blind-darbs. Raeburn went down in a neutral corner and at a signal from his corner remained there till the count of nine. He arose badly dazed and tried to hang on but Klusman again sent him to the floor. Raeburn arose as the count neared ten and at another signal from his corner, dropped to the mat without a blow being struck. This action automatically disqualified him and Referee Frank Groom raised Eddie's hand, awarding him a technical knockout. Raeburn, unconscious of the fact that the evening's festivities had been concluded, came in for more. Klusman himself became rattled and started to mix again and after a few seconds threw Raeburn to the mat. Referee Groom finally got the boys apart and again raised the Queen City's lad's arm. At this point Raeburn's brother-manager rushed into the ring and vigorously protested on the grounds that his man was not thru. Excitement ran rampant for a moment, but the John Laws stepped into the ring and promptly restored order.

Raeburn is entirely dissatisfied with the final outcome and is spoiling for a re-match in the near future which Klusman will no doubt be willing to grant.

Raeburn tipped the beam at 122 while Klusman was just three pounds heavier.

Joe Finklea, 137 pound colored lad of Cincinnati, was awarded a decision at the end of the scheduled six rounds over Bert Murphy, 135, Columbus, a veteran of many an encounter in the semi-final. Finklea got an early lead on points altho Murphy was improving with every round. Both men were masters of defense and were never in serious trouble.

Charlie Baxter of the Capital City had little trouble with Joe Jewell, 111, of Fort Wayne, who was all thru for the evening in just a half minute. The unfortunate Hoosier hit the resin three times in this short space and his manager tossed in the towel to spare him further punishment.

Jewell is really a clever miller, having fought two exhibitions with Fidel La Barba, ex-king of the fly weights. However, the best of them take the count occasionally especially when such a slugger as Baxter is serving them across.

Kid Moats, Roundtown's popular knockout artist, again administered an over dose of his sleep medicine to K. O. Hill also of this city. Hill electrified the crowd by rocking Moats all over the arena in both the first and second rounds, even sending him to the floor in the latter. Hill himself was too near gone to finish him and this proved especially unfortunate for Moats, drove Hill to the canvas once and had "K.O." on the ropes, helpless when the affair was halted, in the next round. Hill at 134 outweighed the victor by four pounds.

Battling Davis, 121, and Wayne Anderson, 119, both of this city, boxed a four round draw in the eye opener.

Baseball

Yesterday's Hero: —Everett Purdy, Cincinnati Red outfielder, who returned to the lineup and singled in the ninth inning to score the tying run in the first game between the Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals. Purdy's double in the 11th with Critz on base with two out scored the winning run to give the Reds a 6 to 5 victory. The Reds won the second game from the St. Louis Cardinals by staging a six run rally in the sixth inning. The score was 8 to 2. Adolph Lague went the route while Riem, Reinhart and Haid were pounded for 11 hits. Chick Hafey hit a home run in each game, giving him 22 homers for the season.

Pittsburgh defeated the Chicago Cubs in both Labor Day games 16 to 1 and 6 to 2. Lloyd and Paul Wagner, Comorosky and Bartell led the attack on four Chicago pitchers in the first game. Chicago's only run resulted from a homer by Kiki Cuyler. In the afternoon, Keny Kremer won his eighth consecutive victory. Although touched for 11 hits, Kremer was effective with men on bases.

The New York Giants made quick work of the Philadelphia Phillies, winning 4 to 3 and 9 to 3. Bill Terry hit a home run in each contest. Chuck Klein and Williams each hit homers.

Jack Scott made his first start for the Giants in the opening game and pitched creditable ball.

Connie Mack's pennant hopes were given a tremendous jolt when the Washington Senators won both ends of a double-header from the Athletics 6 to 1 and 5 to 4. In the first game Hadley held the Mackmen to six hits and struck out eight. A bad throw by Reeves with two out in the ninth prevented him from getting a shutout. Earnshaw lost control in the fifth inning of the second game, walking four and forcing in a run. Marberry struck out Ty Cobb for the third out in the ninth with the tying run on base.

State Needs $177,000,000 for Five-Year Highway Plan;
New Roads to Cut Out 1,000 Grade Crossing Death Trap.

Scientific analysis of Ohio's 11,000 miles of state highways, present conditions, present and future traffic requirements indicates that $177,000,000 could be economically expended for highway purposes in the next five years.

The plan of highway improvement evolved from Ohio's Transport Survey has been based on a detailed and scientific analysis with a constant view to financial economy of public funds.

Ohio's plan calls for the improvement of 4,521 miles of the state system. Of this 1,707 miles or 37.8 per cent is classed as new construction. More than 1,230 miles represents reconstruction of old worn out surfaces and 1,594 miles of widening. The estimated cost of this work is $99,954,000.

This program involves 41.1 per cent of the total state highway mileage. These improvements will cover every section of the state as the following table shows:

	Mi.	New	Recon.	Widen.
No. East	1511	462	496	553
No. West	1366	83	88	138
E. Central	574	245	132	196
No. West	1360	584	306	470
South	867	362	198	247

The northeastern section of the state is the most important total traffic and motor trucking area, and contains the largest amount of motor trucking mileage. This area includes Cleveland, Akron, Canton, Ashabua and other industrial centers.

The above estimate of permanent improvements required during the next five years does not include the cost of major structures such as bridges and grade operations, at rail-road crossings which are estimated at $18,000,000. There are at present more than 1,000 grade crossings on the state highway system outside of municipalities, many of which constitute serious traffic hazards.

However, of this $18,000,000 the railway companies will pay $8,000,000 leaving but $10,000,000 for the state to spend.

Approximately $53,000,000 will be necessary during this period for maintenance and repair of the state highway system.

The following table shows the amounts budgeted for the 5 year program.

New Construction, etc.	$100,000,000
Bridges	5,000,000
Grade Crossings	5,000,000
Maintenance	5,000,000
Administration	3,000,000
Contingency Fund	5,000,000

From this it will be seen that approximately $35,000,000 per year will be necessary to provide adequate highway service for the large and increasing volume of traffic using the state highway system. The recent traffic survey shows that while the state system is but 13 per cent of the entire road mileage, it carries approximately 60 per cent of the traffic.

Now it can be plainly seen that unless the legislature acts to provide funds this very necessary program of reconstruction and new construction will be seriously curtailed and increased maintenance costs on the old and worn out pavements will eat up funds which otherwise might be devoted to new highways. In a subsequent article the present financing system will be described.

Wringing the clothes is easy and effective with the Maytag. The large, soft rolls of the new Roller Water Remover hug every fold, lump and seam, removing both soap and water evenly from all parts of a bulky garment or a thin handkerchief.

EARLY GRAIN REVIEW
CHICAGO, Sept. 4 — Wheat eased slightly on the board of trade today as the result of lower Liverpool cables and lack of buying power. Corn advanced while oats were irregular.

Wheat opened unchanged to 7-8 cents lower; corn was unchanged to 5-8 cent up and oats ranged from 1-8 cent off to 1-8 cent up. Provisions were slightly higher.

The reports of private experts which will be issued today are expected to estimate the spring wheat crop at about 310,000,000 bushels. The visible supply report due today is expected to show a good increase over last week. Ideal harvesting weather was reported by most parts of the belt over the week-end.

Private estimates on corn range from 3,050,000,000 to 3,120,000,000 bushels. The crop is so far advanced that only a heavy frost with the next three weeks can cause serious damage. No deliveries have been made so far on September contracts.

The movement of oats from farms to the principal markets has been extremely light. Prices are low but trade has been dull.

MAYTAG Cast Aluminum Tub Keeps the water clean

THE Maytag tub has a sediment trap which collects the loose dirt that is flushed from the clothes. It keeps the water clean, and also permits the tub to drain itself thoroughly without tipping the washer.

The effective shape of the Maytag tub promotes vigorous water action in every inch of the tub all the time, so that the washing is done by water action alone—an action that keeps the soap thoroughly mixed with the water and removes even stubborn edge dirt without hand-rubbing.

Wringing the clothes is easy and effective with the Maytag. The large, soft rolls of the new Roller Water Remover hug every fold, lump and seam, removing both soap and water evenly from all parts of a bulky garment or a thin handkerchief.

Phone for a Maytag. Do your next washing with it. Experience the thrill of a washing done in an hour or so, done with so little work that it is really fun, and sweetened by the sunlight of your own back yard. If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

EARLY GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Sept. 4—Wheat eased slightly on the board of trade today as the result of lower Liverpool cables and lack of buying power. Corn advanced while oats were irregular.

Wheat opened unchanged to 7-8 cents lower; corn was unchanged to 5-8 cent up and oats ranged from 1-8 cent off to 1-8 cent up. Provisions were slightly higher.

The reports of private experts which will be issued today are expected to estimate the spring wheat crop at about 310,000,000 bushels. The visible supply report due today is expected to show a good increase over last week. Ideal harvesting weather was reported by most parts of the belt over the week-end.

Private estimates on corn range from 3,050,000,000 to 3,120,000,000 bushels. The crop is so far advanced that only a heavy frost with the next three weeks can cause serious damage. No deliveries have been made so far on September contracts.

The movement of oats from farms to the principal markets has been extremely light. Prices are low but trade has been dull.

BIBLE THOUGHT

BIBLE THOUGHT—AN EXHORTATION—O house of Jacob, come ye, and let us walk in the light of the Lord.—Isa. 2:5

PRAYER—Lord, "let some beams of heavenly light make bright our earthly way."

PUTTING THE BEST FOOT FORWARD

One of our citizens remarks that while away on a motor trip this summer, he passed through a certain town which in his boyhood was noted as a down and out kind of place. It was a place where no ambitious person would want to live.

He went on to say that on his return home a short time ago, he passed through this old town which was once so seedy. He was surprised to find it appearing as a nice country village. The houses were well repaired and painted, and a new air of prosperity had come over it.

The same contrast would hold true of hundreds of villages in Ohio. Automobile travel has had a most remarkable effect. It has distributed a lot of money through these communities, paid down to people who run automobile garages, gas stations, repair shops, etc., also to people who sell food, which they could not sell.

Still more than that, it has suggested to people that they are under constant inspection from strangers. The people in any town go around to different places and they see improvements being made, and they go home feeling that their own place must look better, and they get out and make improvements.

All this applies to our conditions here in Circleville. Our community is being inspected every day by hundreds and thousands of motorists who pass through our streets. If they find some disagreeable looking spots, an unpleasant impression of the town is created. But our citizens commonly take pride in putting the best foot forward, and making their homes and business places attractive for the world to look at as it rides by. If we have any ambition to keep up with modern life it is up to us to make a handsome looking town in every detail.

AUTOMOBILE SIGNAL LIGHTS: Signal systems for regulating automobile traffic in cities and towns are being put in in a great many places. Some rapid drivers complain that this causes them to stop when there is no need of it, and no cars are in sight with refreshments, vegetables, etc.

But in many cities and towns, it is doing away with the services of traffic policemen, and permitting the officers to devote themselves to the duties which formerly took all their time. Many communities are saved the necessity of employing more officers. And it would seem likely that many accidents are averted.

Drivers should carefully obey these light signals, and if they are thus regarded, much trouble and expense will be saved.

THE "KITCHEN VOTE"

One of the Republican slogans, is "a picture of Hoover in every kitchen." They are after the "kitchen vote." The Democrats will be after it too. Any political party or candidate that gets the kitchen vote will be likely to win.

The women will do a lot of thinking in their kitchens, as they dress up the meats and cook the pies. Those hours are a good time for thinking about politics.

The kitchen vote will come nearer settling this election than the parlor vote. The women who spend too much time in society life, will have their political influence, and many of them are very intelligent. But the great majority of American married women are workers in their kitchens, and they spend a great deal of money to provide the supplies that are used in these kitchens. If the economic conditions in the country interfere with the activities of the kitchen, the ballot boxes will feel the reaction on November 6.

Oil men are working on a new code of ethics, according to a report. This will replace the old one, "Don't Get Caught," which several of the boys violated recently.—New York Evening Post.

The Philathea Sunday school class of the M. E. church met Wednesday afternoon in the Community room. The meeting was opened by singing "The Name of Jesus," the president of the class, Mrs. Ella Pyte, presiding, who read a part of the thirteenth chapter of Hebrews which was followed by all singing "Give of Your Best to the Master." LUCY B. PRICE, MASONIC MEETINGS

Love's Ecstasy by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR. ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl working in New York as a stenographer, and Gary Chester, young engineer, are in love. Alela is living with Marise de Rense and the latter's young, sophisticated sister, Goldie. Goldie, jealous of Alela, tricks her into attending a scandalous party and then notifies Gary. He, disillusioned, avoids Alela. Goldie, visiting Alela's office, meets Gary Chester and again maliciously poisons his mind with falsehoods about Alela. Before she leaves the office, Lingard, Alela's employer, enters and mistakes Goldie for Marise.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLV.

"MARISE? IT IS MARISE?" William B. Lingard, in his outer office, was staring at Goldie as though hypnotized.

At first, before he voiced Marise's name in this tense manner, he had thought he was insane. She gave a shaky laugh now, and he felt relieved, yet extraordinarily anxious. He had mistaken her for her elder sister, Goldie, only because that was all.

"I'm NOT Marise—not by twenty years! She's my old-maid sister!" Goldie got herself together, and smiled impishly into his face. She was still sore from Gary Chester's cavalier departure and lack of interest in herself. Here was a fresh field for an adventure.

This man was rich. At some time or another—evidently years ago, since he had mistaken her own youthful prettiness for one whose charms (according to Goldie's idea) had long since vanished—he had had some romantic association with Marise?

She, then, the younger sister—who now had the advantage of all the freshness—would profit by it. She said, coquettishly: "Won't I do instead?" With a provocative upward glance from her green eyes.

He still looked as though he were in a daze. "A little sister?" never knew she had a sister? Would you mind telling me—your name—your full name?" "Goldie de Rense," rapped out the flapper. What mystery was here?

"De Rense," he repeated. His brows knitted. There was a puzzled, searching look on his face. Goldie decided it was a good-looking manly sort of countenance, albeit rugged. Not that she cared one way or the other about his appearance, since he had cash—"bodies of cash!"

"Yes, that's our name. And as Marise is an old maid, she's never had another name—nor likely to have!" Goldie's laugh grated.

"At last she said, to put a quietus on this subject:—'Marise is head over heels in love with a young Englishman!'" William B. Lingard was silent.

who recognized and loved a real man when she saw him. "The Drag Net" is without question one of her best. Powell is his usual suave, sinister self. He is leader of the crooks and a very convincing one. Fred Kohler also gives an excellent performance as Steve the Greek, and Leslie Fenton has a colorful part as Shakespeare, the literary detective.

THEATRES

"THE DRAG NET"

Now George Bancroft comes along with "The Drag Net." Here is as tense and vital a melodrama as has ever been put on the screen at the Metropolitan theater.

The story hinges on the underworld theme but this time it attacks the problem from the standpoint of the men who risk their lives every day to preserve society. Bancroft takes the part of a hard, fearless detective with a laugh. "Shoot first and aim straight," is his motto.

Next only to Bancroft's superb performance is the work of Evelyn Brent and William Powell. Miss Brent has given some great characterizations recently and her portrayal of the lawless creature,

SMITH LAYS PLANS TO FIGHT HOOVER IN N. Y. STATE

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith turned his attention to state affairs, first to several governmental matters which have accumulated, and second to the vigorous and thorough campaign he and his leaders are planning to combat the Hoover movement now actively under way in this state.

While he is discussing state problems with officials, Gov. Smith also will map out with his lieutenants, the strategy of the New York presidential campaign. He and his advisers are working on the theory that New York holds the key to the "wet" East and therefore is the outstanding psychological factor in the election.

For this reason, the personality and influence of the Democratic candidate will be used largely in the New York campaign. Smith, himself, will sound the opening call of the campaign at the state Democratic convention at Rochester, Oct. 1 and 2. He will have before him then as his text, as he terms it, the platform and candidates selected by the Republicans at their state convention at Syracuse the last of September.

Democrats will make an active bid all over the country, including the farm states, but they figure it will take only a few outside states if they can put over Smith by the modification appeal in the five "wet" states in this section—New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut—with the solid South and perhaps Maryland. They are even talking of rock-ribbed Republican Pennsylvania.

BANKERS TO MEET AT WILMINGTON SEPT. 13

Several hundred bankers from thirteen southern and south-central Ohio counties will gather at Wilmington on Sept. 13 to "talk shop" at the annual meeting of Group Four, Ohio Bankers Association.

The thirteen counties which will be represented will be Fayette, Pickaway, Clinton, Ross, Vinton, Highland, Pike, Jackson, Brown, Adams, Scioto, Gallia and Lawrence.

How they can make their institutions safer and sounder, if possible, and how they can employ the millions of dollars entrusted to them to the greatest benefit of their respective communities, will be subjects which will be discussed by the bankers during their deliberations.

Arthur B. Taylor, of Elyria, president of The Ohio Bankers Association will discuss "Our Duty as Bankers."

Charles H. Mylander, Columbus, secretary of The Ohio Bankers Association, will speak briefly on "Some Legislative Problems," paying particular attention to questions of taxation with which he is thoroughly familiar.

Clark A. Will, Circleville, is vice chairman of the group, and N. C. Winkle, of Hillsboro, is secretary-treasurer.

The wets and dries are kicking up a pretty big row in this campaign over the prohibition law, seeing that if Smith is elected he can't repeal it, and if Hoover is elected he can't enforce it.—Washington Post.

TOO MANY MOTORISTS THINK ONLY OF CAR

They Insist on the Best of Diet for Machines But Pay Scant Heed to Food They Provide for Themselves.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D. United States Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

IN a San Antonio paper I saw this headline: "Healthy Automobiles Must Be Provided Healthy Food."

The article went on to say that poor gasoline and oil are undesirable for a machine as unwholesome food is for a passenger in the car. The writer tells the tale of the car which "goes to pot on the long vacation drive because its owner thinks too largely in terms of his own diet and leaves the menu of the automobile to chance, fate and the vagaries of the 'filling station man.'"

This is good sense, but let's turn it around. Too many automobile owners think about their cars, the fuel, the quality of the oil. They never overheat the engine or neglect to change the oil. The car is cleaned regularly and kept in best condition.

Why does not the car owner treat his own body just as well? He would be inclined to assault the garage man who gave him inferior oil or put sand in the gas tank.

This same automobilist would accept complacently the contaminated or inferior food sent for him in an eating place. Nothing is too good for his car, but apparently nothing is too bad to be put into his own stomach.

Anyone will "go to pot" if he leaves "to chance, fate and the vagaries" of the cook, what he is to eat and drink. You can buy a neat car and can replace any part in its make-up, but you can't buy new kidneys or replace your liver. When these are destroyed by your own neglect, nobody profits but the undertaker.

It does not pay to neglect the selection and the eating of good food. Perhaps it will help you to remember this by bearing in mind what bad fuel and oil will do to an automobile. Whether you own a Ford or a Rolls-Royce, you know the importance of excellence in these supplies. Whether you are a ditch-digger or a broker you cannot run the human machine on bad food.

What you are and what you can do in the world depends to a surprising degree upon the food you eat. Don't forget it!

SLOANE COMES OUT FOR HOOVER

President of General Motors Also Says He Favors Prohibition.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Because he says the country is well managed now and does not need a change in management Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, favors the election of Herbert Hoover as president of the United States.

Sloan is the third official of the corporation to take an active personal political stand. John J. Raskob resigned as chairman of the board to become chairman of the Democratic national committee while Pierre Du Pont, one of the directors, offered his resignation when he announced support of Smith.

Sloan made it emphatic that he spoke, not as president of the motor corporation, but merely as a voter. He did not mention any plan to resign, as did Raskob and Du Pont.

In the statement Sloan also said he favored prohibition because it had increased business efficiency, although he admitted there were defects in the present enforcement program. Du Pont gave his support to the Democratic party, partly because he did not agree with prohibition.

"SUNDAY" WINS BIG PURSE IN TURTLE RACE
PONCA CITY, Okla., Sept. 4.—"Sunday," an unpedigreed land turtle, won first honors and $4,500 in the fifth annual national terrapin derby at the 101 Ranch yesterday. "Sunday" crossed the finishing line a scant shell ahead of "Anonymous" in one minute forty-seven seconds. The distance was 25 yards.

"Sunday" carried the colors of M. W. Caffey, 65, a Ponca City watchman who found him three weeks ago Sunday while on his way to work.

THE RIVAL TROUBADORS

Love's Ecstasy

by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.
ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl working in New York as a stenographer, and Gary Chester, young engineer, are in love. Alela is living with Marise de Renze and the latter's young, sophisticated sister, Goldie. Goldie, jealous of Alela, tricks her into attending a scandalous party and then notifies Gary. He, disillusioned, avoids Alela. Goldie, visiting Alela's office, meets Gary Chester and again maliciously poisons his mind with falsehoods about Alela. Before she leaves the office, Lingard, Alela's employer, enters and mistakes Goldie for Marise.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLV.
"MARISE? IT IS MARISE?"
William B. Lingard, in his outer office, was staring at Goldie as though hypnotized.

At first, before he voiced Marise's name in this tense manner, he had thought he was insane. She gave a shaky laugh now, half relieved, yet extraordinarily serious. He had mistaken her for her elder sister, oddly enough.

But that was all. "I'm NOT Marise—not by twenty years! She's my old-maid sister!" Goldie got herself together, and smiled impishly into his face. She was still sore from Gary Chester's cavalier departure and lack of interest in herself. Here was a fresh field for an adventure.

This man was rich. At some time or another—evidently years ago, since he had mistaken her own youthful prettiness for one whose charms (according to Goldie's idea) had long since vanished—he had had some romantic association with Marise?

She, then, the younger sister—who now had the advantage of all the freshness—would profit by it. She said, coquettishly: "Won't I do instead?" With a provocative upward glance from her green eyes.

He still looked as though he were in a daze. "A little sister? I never knew she had a—sister? Would you mind telling me—your name—your full name?"

"Goldie de Renze," rapped out the flapper. What mystery was here?

"De Renze?" he repeated. His brows knitted. There was a puzzled, searching look on his face. Goldie decided it was a good-looking way or the other about his appearance, since he had cash—oodles of cash!

"Yes, That's our name. And as Marise is an old maid, she's never had another name—nor likely to have!" Goldie's laugh grated.

As they bowed uptown in his beautiful appointed limousine, Goldie snuggled back in the interior beside Mr. Lingard, thoroughly enjoying herself. It was annoying that, throughout dinner (she ordered the most expensive dishes on the menu) he persistently questioned her about Marise.

At last she said, to put a quietus on this subject:—"Marise is head over heels in love with a young Englishman!"

William B. Lingard was silent. who recognized and loved a real man when she saw him, in "The Drag Net" is without question one of her best. Powell is his usual suave, sinister self. He is leader of the crooks and a very convincing one. Fred Kohler also gives an excellent performance as Steve the Greek, and Leslie Fenton has a colorful part as Shakespeare, the literary detective.

The story hinges on the underworld theme but this time it attacks the problem from the standpoint of the men who risk their lives every day to preserve society. Bancroft takes the part of a hard, fearless detective with a laugh. "Shoot first and aim straight," is his motto.

Next only to Bancroft's superb performance is the work of Evelyn Brent and William Powell. Miss Brent has given some great characterizations recently and her portrayal of the lawless creature,

SMITH LAYS PLANS TO FIGHT HOOVER IN N. Y. STATE

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith turned his attention to state affairs, first to several governmental matters which have accumulated and second to the vigorous and thorough campaign he and his leaders are planning to combat the Hoover movement now actively under way in this state.

While he is discussing state problems with officials, Gov. Smith also will map out with his lieutenants the strategy of the New York presidential campaign. He and his advisers are working on the theory that New York holds the key to the "wet" East and therefore is the outstanding psychological factor in the election.

For this reason, the personality and influence of the Democratic candidate will be used largely in the New York campaign. Smith, himself, will sound the opening call of the campaign at the state Democratic convention at Rochester, Oct. 1 and 2. He will have before him then as his text, as he terms it, the platform and candidates selected by the Republicans at their state convention at Syracuse the last of September.

Democrats will make an active bid all over the country, including the farm states, but they figure it will take only a few outside states if they can put over Smith by the modification appeal in the five "wet" states in this section—New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut—with the solid South and perhaps Maryland. They are even talking of rock-ribbed Republican Pennsylvania.

BANKERS TO MEET AT WILMINGTON SEPT. 13

Several hundred bankers from thirteen southern and south-central Ohio counties will gather at Wilmington on Sept. 13 to "talk shop" at the annual meeting of Group Four, Ohio Bankers Association.

The thirteen counties which will be represented will be Fayette, Pickaway, Clinton, Ross, Vinton, Highland, Pike, Jackson, Brown, Adams, Scioto, Gallia and Lawrence.

How they can make their institutions safer and sounder, if possible, and how they can employ the millions of dollars entrusted to them to the greatest benefit of their respective communities, will be subjects which will be discussed by the bankers during their deliberation.

Arthur B. Taylor, of Elyria, president of The Ohio Bankers Association will discuss "Our Duty as Bankers."

Charles H. Mylander, Columbus, secretary of The Ohio Bankers Association, will speak briefly on "Some Legislative Problems," paying particular attention to questions of taxation with which he is thoroughly familiar.

Clark A. Will, Circleville, is vice chairman of the group, and N. C. Winkle, of Hillsboro, is secretary-treasurer.

The wets and dries are kicking up a pretty big row in this campaign over the prohibition law, seeing that if Smith is elected he can't repeal it, and if Hoover is elected he can't enforce it.—Washington Post.

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria. At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle of that little old Castoria in the house. Just a few drops and that colic or constipation is relieved, or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product, a baby remedy, it's about the only thing you'll ever hear doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicine is dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember it. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

TOO MANY MOTORISTS THINK ONLY OF CAR

They Insist on the Best of Diet for Machines But Pay Scant Heed to Food They Provide for Themselves.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

In a San Antonio paper I saw this headline: "Healthy Automobiles Must Be Provided Healthy Food."

The article went on to say that poor gasoline and oil are undesirable for a machine as unwholesome food is for a passenger in the car. The writer tells the tale of the car which "goes to pot on the long vacation drive because its owner thinks too largely in terms of his own diet and leaves the menu of the automobile to chance, fate and the vagaries of the filling station man."

This is good sense, but let's turn it around. Too many automobile owners think about their cars, the fuel, the quality of the oil. They never overhear the engine or neglect to change the oil. The car is cleaned regularly and kept in best of condition.

Why does not the car owner treat his own body just as well? He would be inclined to assault the garage man who gave him inferior oil or put sand in the gas tank.

This same automobilist would accept complacently the contaminated or inferior food set before him in an eating place. Nothing is too good for his car, but apparently nothing is too bad to be put into his own stomach.

Anyone will "go to pot" if he leaves "to chance, fate and the vagaries" of the cook, what he is to eat and drink. You can buy a new car and can replace any part in it, but you can't buy new kidneys, but it would be wise to have your heart examined.

It does not pay to neglect the selection and the eating of good food. Perhaps it will help you to remember this by bearing in mind what bad fuel and oil will do to an automobile. Whether you own a Ford or a Rolls-Royce, you know the importance of excellence in these supplies. Whether you are a ditch-digger or a broker you cannot run the human machine on bad food.

What you are and what you can do in the world depends to a surprising degree upon the food you eat. Don't forget it!

SLOANE COMES OUT FOR HOOVER

President of General Motors Also Says He Favors Prohibition.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Because he says the country is well managed now and does not need a change in management Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, favors the election of Herbert Hoover as president of the United States.

Sloan is the third official of the corporation to take an active personal political stand. John J. Raskob resigned as chairman of the board to become chairman of the Democratic national committee while Pierre Du Pont, one of the directors, offered his resignation when he announced support of Smith.

"Sloan made it emphatic that he spoke, not as president of the motor corporation, but merely as a voter. He did not mention any plan to resign, as did Raskob and Du Pont.

In the statement Sloan also said he favored prohibition because it had increased business efficiency, although he admitted there were defects in the present enforcement program. Du Pont gave his support to the Democratic party, partly because he did not agree with prohibition.

Measurement of Time

Vague Among Savages

Strange methods of counting time are in vogue among savages and semicivilized peoples, and often the scarcity or abundance of rations serves to measure the year. Thus, in Alaska, one month is known as "people gnaw belts," for at that time seals and fish are particularly scarce and the tribes are often on the verge of starvation. In Dahomey, French West Africa, the year is divided only into the time of planting and eating maize, of plowing again, and of harvest. The Polynesians have a "month of grumbles," the time of little food, rainy weather, smoking houses, watering eyes and constant quarrels. Among more primitive races the measurement of time is even more vague. The chief of a Pacific Island may reply, when asked how long his house has been standing, that it has existed for only two smallpox epidemics. These methods of distinguishing the seasons, it is said, are akin to the inability of primitive peoples to count. There is a saying in Denmark that all who desire to remain perpetually young should go to Greenland, where they will never be more than twenty years old. No native of Greenland can count above twenty, it is said.—Detroit News.

Hope and Expectancy

in Railroader's Plea

On a switch engine belonging to the Northern Pacific is pasted the following: "Now that I have flagged Thee; lift up my feet from the rough road of life and plant them on the train of salvation. Let me use the safety lamp of prudence, make all couplings with the links of love and let my lantern be the Bible, and keep all switches closed that lead on the main line into sidings and blind ends. Have every semaphore block along the line show the white light of hope, that I may make the run of life without stopping. Help me to use the Ten Commandments as a working card, and when I have finished the run on scheduled time and pulled into the terminal, may Thou, Superintendent of the Universe, say: 'Well done, good and faithful servant; come into the general office and sign the pay roll and receive your check for eternal happiness.'—Exchange.

Twain's Literary Dinner

While traveling in England, Mark Twain was entertained by the editorial staff of the magazine Punch at a dinner which he later spoke of as one of the happiest incidents of his life. It was characteristic of the American humorist that, although many honors were accorded him, among them the presentation of the famous red and gray robe of an Oxford "doctor," he got his greatest delight from the menu card, upon which the various dishes were named for his books. That night Mark Twain feasted on "Innocent"—Oysters—Abroad, Roughing It Soup, Huckleberry Finn Fish, Joan of Arc Filet of Beef, Jumping Frog Terrapin, Punch Brothers Punch, Guided Duck, Hadleyburg Salad, Life on the Mississippi Ice Cream, Prince and Pauper Cakes, Pudd'nhead Cheese, and White Elephant Coffee.—Kansas City Star.

Snow on Mountain Peaks

There are two main reasons why some mountain peaks have snow upon them the year around, while others of the same height and latitude do not. Temperature is not the same, for the same height, all around the earth along a given parallel of latitude. In temperate regions, for instance, the eastern portion of a continent is colder than the western; precipitation varies greatly along a parallel latitude. The duration of snow on a mountain peak obviously varies with the average temperature and the amount of snowfall. These vary along a parallel of latitude; hence some mountain peaks may be snow-covered throughout the year, while others of the same height and latitude are not.

Supplemental Meal

"Tiffin" or "tiff," the most usual form, is the name of a light repast between breakfast and lunch, says the Pathfinder Magazine. It is derived from an old northern English word "tiff," meaning to drink, sip or quaff. The tiffin is a general custom only in India. The refreshments at the tiffin usually consist of curried foods and fruits. Sometimes the word "tiffin" is applied in England and this country to any lunch, especially in the afternoon between the mid-day meal and dinner or supper.

For Repairing

Plaster of paris is useful for repairing articles in the home, but it will not withstand water very well. It is a good idea when preparing the plaster to mix with milk instead of water, but the milk must be absolutely fresh. Plaster prepared in this way will resist dampness to a considerable degree. The only difference in the working is that the plaster does not become hard quite so rapidly, which is really an advantage, as it allows a longer time in which to do a job of repairing.

Try It

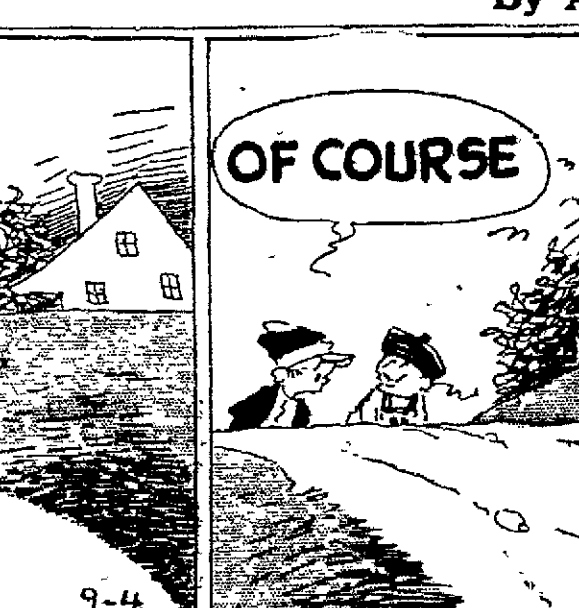

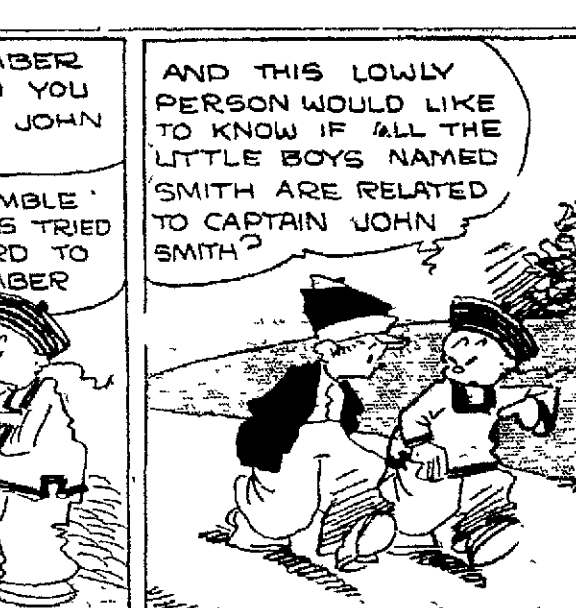

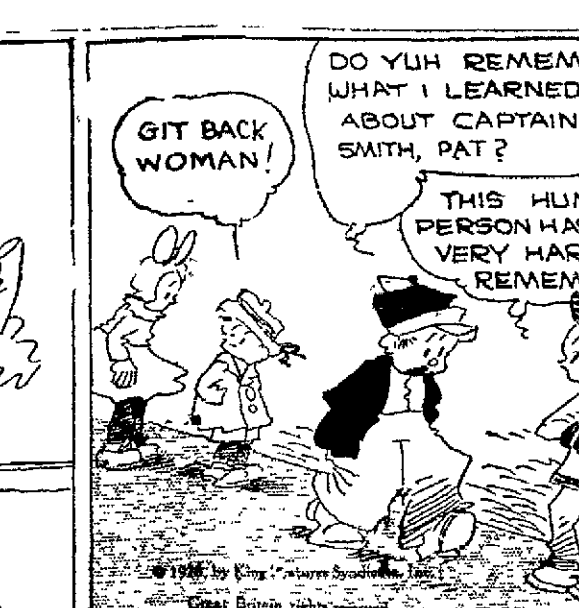

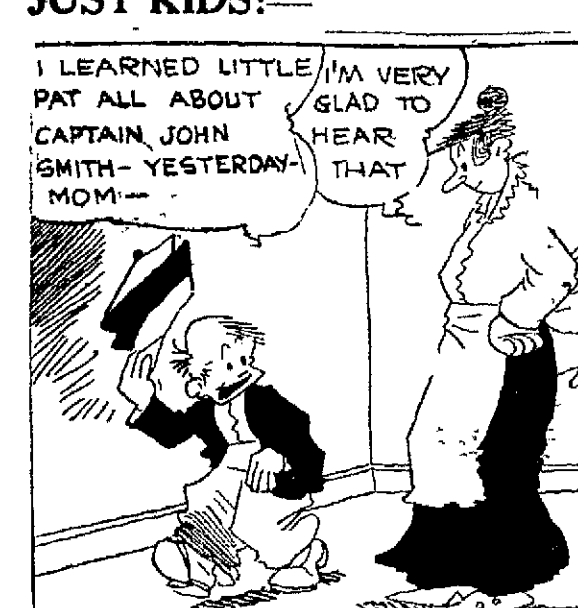

The little man clambered hurriedly at his watch, grabbed his bag, and rushed out to the station platform. The effect on the other travelers was all that could be desired. They also picked up their baggage and ran. Shortly afterward the little man returned, picked out the best seat in the station, and sat down to wait for the train, which was not due for thirty minutes.—Exchange.

Measurement of Time

Vague Among Savages

Strange methods of counting time are in vogue among savages and semicivilized peoples, and often the scarcity or abundance of seasons serves to measure the year. Thus, in Alaska, one month is known as "people grow belts," for at that time seals and fish are particularly scarce and the tribes are often on the verge of starvation. In Dahomey, French West Africa, the year is divided only into the time of planting and eating maize, of planting again, and of harvest.

The Polynesians have a "month of grumbles," the time of little food, rainy weather, smoking houses, watering eyes and constant quarrels. Among more primitive races the measurement of time is even more vague. The chief of a Pacific Island may reply, when asked how long his house has been standing, that it has existed for only two smallpox epidemics.

These methods of distinguishing the seasons, it is said, are akin to the inability of primitive peoples to count. There is a saying in Denmark that all who desire to remain perpetually young should go to Greenland, where they will never be more than twenty years old. No native of Greenland can count above twenty, it is said.—Detroit News.

Hope and Expectancy

in Railroader's Plea

On a switch engine belonging to the Northern Pacific is pasted the following:

"Now that I have flagged Thee, lift up my feet from the rough road of life and plant them on the train of salvation. Let me use the safety lamp of prudence, make all couplings with the links of love and let my lantern be the Bible, and keep all switches closed that lead off the main line into sidings and blind ends. Have every semaphore block along the line show the white light of hope, that I may make the run of life without stopping. Help me to use the Ten Commandments as a working card, and when I have finished the run on scheduled time and pulled into the terminal, may Thou, Superintendent of the Universe, say: 'Well done, good and faithful servant; come into the general office and sign the pay roll and receive your check for eternal happiness.'—Exchange.

Twain's Literary Dinner

While traveling in England, Mark Twain was entertained by the editorial staff of the magazine Punch at a dinner which he later spoke of as one of the happiest incidents of his life. It was characteristic of the American humorist that, although many honors were accorded him, among them the presentation of the famous red and gray robe of an Oxford "doctor," he got his greatest delight from the menu card, upon which the various dishes were named for his books.

That night Mark Twain feasted on Innocent Oysters—Abroad, Roughing It Soup, Huckleberry Finn Fish, Joan of Arc Filet of Beef, Jumping Frog Terrapin, Punch Brothers Punch, Gilded Duck, Hadleyburg Salad, Life on the Mississippi Ice Cream, Prince and Pauper Cakes, Pudd'nhead Cheese, and White Elephant Coffee.—Kansas City Star.

Snow on Mountain Peaks

There are two main reasons why some mountain peaks have snow upon them the year around, while others of the same height and latitude do not. Temperature is not the same, for the same height, all around the earth along a given parallel of latitude. In temperate regions, for instance, the eastern portion of a continent is colder than the western; precipitation varies greatly along a parallel latitude. The duration of snow on a mountain peak obviously varies with the average temperature and the amount of snowfall. These vary along a parallel of latitude; hence some mountain peaks may be snow-covered throughout the year, while others of the same height and latitude are not.

Supplemental Meal

"Tiffin" or "tiff," the most usual form, is the name of a light repast, between breakfast and lunch, says the Pathfinder Magazine. It is derived from an old northern English word "tiff," meaning to drink, slip or quaff.

The tiffin is a general custom only in India. The refreshments at the tiffin usually consist of curried foods and fruits. Sometimes the word "tiffin" is applied in England and this country to any lunch, especially in the afternoon between the mid-day meal and dinner or supper.

For Repairing

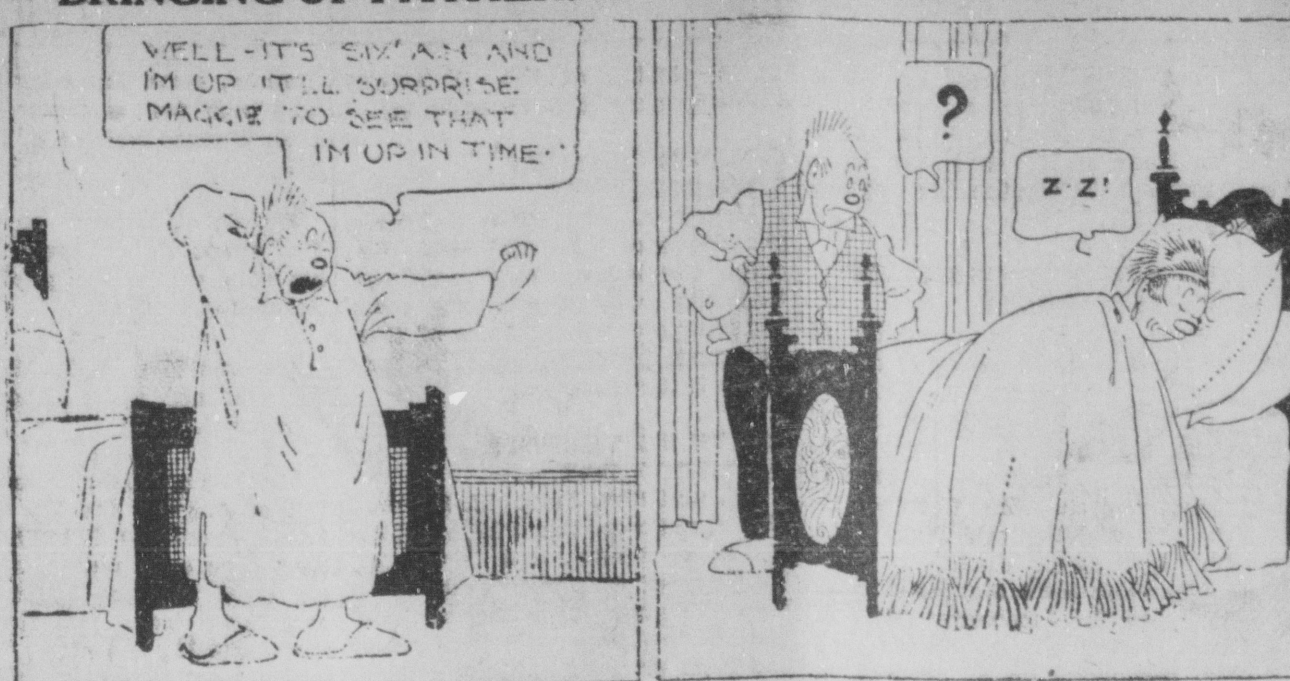

Plaster of paris is useful for repairing articles in the home, but it will not withstand water very well. It is a good idea when preparing the plaster to mix with milk instead of water, but the milk must be absolutely fresh. Plaster prepared in this way will resist dampness to a considerable degree. The only difference in the working is that the plaster does not become hard quite so rapidly, which is really an advantage, as it allows longer time in which to do a job of repairing.

Try It

The little man glancer hurriedly at his watch, grabbed his bag, and rushed out to the station platform. The effect on the other travelers was all that could be desired. They were all picked up their luggage and ran. Shortly afterward the little man returned, picked out the best seat in the station, and sat down to wait for the train, which was not due for thirty minutes.—Exchange.
